

The importance of FAASTeam participation

One of the best ways to improve general aviation safety is for airmen to become involved in the FAASTeam. There are many ways to do this at several levels. Some of them are attend FAASTeam safety meetings, be a presenter at a safety meeting, participate in the WINGS or On-Line AMT AWARDS program, or take on-line courses on the faasafety.gov website. One of the best ways to get our airmen to participate is for the CFI community to actively recommend the FAASTeam to their students. This safety program will provide CFIs and Students information about the many ways there are to participate in the local FAASTeam.
